Congress seeks answers

Investigation over, Carter backs Lance

By MICHAEL DOAN
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter and banking officials are convinced that Budget Director Bert Lance broke no laws as a Georgia banker, but members of Congress want to question Lance further about his finances.

Comptroller of the Currency John Heimann, who had been conducting the investigation into Lance's business affairs, concluded Thursday that no information developed to date "warrants the prosecution of any individuals."

Afterward, Carter interrupted his week-long vacation at Camp David, Md., to fly to Washington and tell reporters that "my faith in the character and competence of Bert Lance has been reconfirmed."

"Bert, I'm proud of you," he said, shaking the hand of his close friend.

Lance said in a statement he would remain in his Office of Management and Budget post. "I feel my ability to carry out my job has not been damaged. In this regard I deeply appreciate the confidence which has been expressed in me.

"I feel strongly that if allegations such as those raised in recent days can cripple a person's ability to carry out his or her job, then we are in bad shape in our country," Lance said.

Sen. Abraham Ribicoff, chairman of the Senate committee which held hearings on Lance's nomination as budget director, said the major allegations against the official "were definitely disproved by the comptroller's report."

But the Connecticut Democrat asked Heimann to finish his inquiry and testify at a Government Operations Committee hearing on Sept. 7, after Congress returns from its summer recess. Lance was asked to appear the next day.

Sen. Charles H. Percy, R-Ill., said that if the hearings last more than a few weeks, Lance probably will have trouble doing his job.

A House banking subcommittee also plans to look into possible changes in banking laws as a result of the inquiry. Heimann, appointed by Carter a month ago, said he has not finished his investigation in three areas.

—His own office's handling of the original investigation into Lance's finances.

—Lance's banking transactions before 1975.

—Allegations that Lance improperly used his bank's airplane.

Carter took five flights on the bank's airplane while running for office, his aides said Thursday.

In disclosing the flights, spokesman Jody Powell said there would be nothing wrong with the trips unless they were campaign flights and the bank was not reimbursed. He said officials still are checking on the flights.

Coffee Break . . .

THE SIGHT of most cows at the Ohio State Fair is nothing out of the ordinary... However, there is one cow that always attracts a lot of attention...

For 50 fair seasons, the "butter cow" has resided in its 40-degree, glass-walled room in the dairy building, located behind the fair's administration building...

According to Earl B. Poling, manager of the dairy products division at the state fair, the cow is used since it typifies the dairy industry... The "butter cow" is on display along with a calf and tennis player also made from butter...

The whole display represents 800 pounds of pure butter, molded into the shapes seen... The cost of labor and materials is about $1,500, Poling said...

The "butter cow" has had numerous creators in its history... The 1977 version of the cow was made by Richard D. Ross of Worthington...

Each year new butter is used to construct the cow display... After the fair, the butter from the display will be reprocessed...

It seems the "butter cow" will see many more state fair days... "It's popularity has warranted its continuation," Poling said...

State fair visitors checking out the "butter cow" may also see a cheese display and receive nutritional information on dairy products and career opportunities in the dairy field... There are also the dairy products available for consumption...

DON'T FORGET that August 23 is the date for registration of new students in the Miami Trace School District...

The registration sessions will be held from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m. at the high school, for grades 9-12; at Bloomingburg, for grades 1,2,3,6,7,8; at Madison Mills, for grades K-5; at Chaffin, for grades 1-3; at Wilson, for grades 4-6; at Staunton, for grades K-2; at Olive, for grades 3-6; at Eber, for grades 7 and 8; at Jasper, for grades K-3; at Jeffersonville, for grades 1-8; at New Holland, for grades K-8, and at Wayne, for grades K-8...

Parents having questions as to where their children should be registered are asked to call 335-3010... School officials said the registration sessions are only for families who have moved into the Miami Trace School District during the summer months...

MAGIC at the Ohio State Fair or just some unique, innovative ideas for fuel alternatives?... Fairgoers would think both after visiting the displays and exhibits featuring a barbecue grill that doesn't use charcoal, a wood-burning stove that doesn't smoke and a house with a windmill on the roof...

Cold winters have spurred on the mother of invention in many people, especially with a barbecue grill that uses yesterday's newspaper for fuel... The grill, about the size of a small wastebasket when assembled, uses five wadded sheets of paper and the fat drippings and cooks a steak in six minutes or hamburgers or four... It retails for about $20...

Another product of technical know-how and a little help from the sun is the Ohio State University solar home, complete with indoor gardens and a breakfast sunroof... The house is shingled with heat-absorbing solar panels used to heat and cool the rooms...

Other creative ideas are not new ones, but traditional methods updated to meet energy demands, such as the lazy fan that swirls hot ceiling air back to the floor spaces... The old wood-burner has regained its pioneer popularity with new models guaranteed not to smoke or burn fingers...

The most economical method suggested was a souped-up version of the windmill, hooked to a 12-volt battery on a house rooftop... This method gains enough electrical charge in a seven mile per hour breeze to power a radio or a small television set.

Carter administration says

New Israeli camps obstacles to peace

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Carter administration, repeating its opposition to Israeli settlements on the West Bank of the Jordan River, says three new camps were established by "illegal acts" and are "obstacles to constructive negotiations" toward a Mideast peace.

Israel disputed the American charge.

The country's ambassador in Washington, Avi Pazner, denied that the new settlements are an obstacle to the renewed peace talks the United States has been promoting and said his country still seeks negotiations with the Arabs.

In New York, Israeli U.N. Ambassador Chaim Herzog accused the world organization of "double standards and discrimination" in condemning the Israeli action while ignoring what he said are recent terrorist acts by the Palestine Liberation Organization.

U.N. Secretary General Kurt Waldheim joined Carter in expressing his "regrets" at the move establishing the settlements.

The United States made its feelings known in a note delivered to Israeli officials here and in Jerusalem.

The United States also complained Thursday that the extension of administrative regulations to more than one million Arabs living in the West Bank area "creates an impression of permanence of Israel's occupation ... which is not helpful."

The three towns were authorized Wednesday by Israeli Prime Minister Menahem Begin. Sources in Jerusalem said Begin acted to placate his most conservative supporters.

There now are 79 Israeli settlements with a population of about 5,000 Israelis in the land occupied during the 1967 Arab-Israeli war.

State Department spokesman Hodding Carter III, expressing American displeasure with Israel, told a news conference that the United States regrets the statement Sunday by a top Israeli official that the West Bank belongs to its country.

The United States maintains that the West Bank is not a permanent Israeli acquisition, but is only under temporary military occupation.

Spokesman Carter said the administration's "position on the issue of settlements is clear. We reaffirm what we have said many times before. These unilateral, illegal acts in territories under Israeli occupation create obstacles to constructive negotiations."

The President asked Begin in talks here last month to halt for the time being approvals of new West Bank settlements. The Israeli government has refused to offer such a guarantee.

Agency recommends releasing Berkowitz on own recognizance

NEW YORK (AP) — A pretrial agency recommended that David Berkowitz, who police say is the "Son of Sam" killer of six persons, be released without bail because he had a steady job, a permanent residence and no prior criminal record.

The recommendation by the Criminal Justice Agency Inc., a private group funded by the city and the federal government, "defies belief," Mayor Abraham Beame said Thursday.

The agency recommended Berkowitz' release on his own recognizance even though it knew he was accused of being the .44-caliber killer, Beame said.

The mayor said similar recommendations in less notorious cases "could permit dangerous criminals to walk the streets on little or no bail."

Beame, who is running for reelection, ordered an immediate investigation of the procedures used by the agency, which interviews every criminal justice defendant who appears before a judge in New York City and makes its recommendations to judges.

Beame said he was informed of the recommendation by the agency's board chairman, Nicholas Scopetta, deputy mayor for criminal justice. Scopetta said it was the "apparently absurd result of a mechanical and literal interpretation by the agency of its criteria for recommending bail."

Meanwhile, today's editions of The New York Daily News quoted psychiatrists examining Berkowitz as saying they had "serious doubts" that he will be found mentally competent to stand trial.

"At present, we are not inclined to believe that Mr. Berkowitz is lucid," said one source quoted by The News. "He does not appear to know what is going on around him at all times. He does have rational moments, but for the present, he does not appear able to sustain them."

Grocery cashier may quit job after winning lottery prize

CLEVELAND (AP) — Moments after Helen Rousis won $85,000 Thursday night in the Ohio Lottery Pot O'Gold game she said, "I've been working for 20 years and now I'm going to live a little bit."

Mrs. Rousis, from Lorain, said she has been a cashier at a supermarket for all those years and now, with both her son and daughter finished with college, she may quit.

"I don't know about quitting yet," she said with a laugh. "I don't want to say anything rash, but I probably will quit."

"I didn't feel lucky or anything tonight and I was very nervous, but my store manager said I was going to make it big, and I guess he was right," Mrs. Rousis added.

Mrs. Rousis, also won the opportunity to return next week and add to her winnings.

Frank B. Williams of Columbus, who won $55,000 a week earlier and appeared for the second time, added another $7,400 to his total.

Other Pot O'Gold winners were Andrew M. Hudak of Girard, $10,100; Edward J. Gualtieri of Dover, $9,300; Calvin P. Sapp of Ravenna, $7,200, and Arthur C. Blunt of Columbus, $5,500.

Here are the numbers picked in the weekly number drawing:

OUT WEST?—What looks to be a scene from the rugged and barren old West is actually much closer to home. Record-Herald staff photographer Tim Carson snapped the shot earlier this year at Deer Creek State Park. Carson entered

Rock king put to final rest

Elvis fans hope to receive flowers from singer's crypt

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — Fans of Elvis Presley slept on the sidewalks through the night, hoping to be among the first of the expected thousands who would be given flowers from their idol's funeral bouquets today.

Presley was buried at Forest Hill Cemetery Thursday. His family decided afterwards that the blossoms from 3,116 floral displays surrounding the singer's white marble crypt would be given to the thousands of fans who had flocked to Memphis but were unable to view Presley's body.

Two dozen fans bedded down on the sidewalk outside the cemetery, while about 50 maintained an overnight vigil about four miles away at Presley's Graceland Mansion.

Mourners had waited patiently for hours in the broiling sun Thursday — outside the Presley mansion, along the four-mile funeral route on Elvis Presley Boulevard and in front of the cemetery.

The white funeral that Presley had wanted was carried out: a white hearse bore Presley's copper coffin, covered by 500 red rosebuds, and 16 shining white Cadillacs led a creeping procession of about 50 cars from the mansion to the cemetery.

But a commercial atmosphere also crept into the sad occasion. Hawkers sold Elvis T-shirts for $10. Forty-cent picture postcards of Graceland went quickly for $1.50. A small bottle of cola, also $1.50.

Radio stations blared "Love Me Tender" and other Presley ballads over portable radios held by many fans along the processional route.

Sometimes the crowd surged toward the motorcade and slowed its progress. At least once a policeman had to wrestle a grieving girl away from the moving hearse.

But at the mausoleum, deep inside the cemetery and out of the view of the curious crowd, all was serene.

Floral tributes in front of the mausoleum hid the lawn under a spectacular quilt of color as some 50 members of the Presley family and 150 invited guests arrived for the entombment.

Eight official pallbearers carried the coffin inside for five minutes of ceremony.

Vernon Presley, the singer's father, stayed behind for a few private moments with Elvis, watching as workers began to seal the crypt.

The mourners had first attended an hour-long private service in the piano room at Graceland. There they had the opportunity for a last, personal farewell in front of the open coffin.

"The emotion was very sad all during the ceremony," said Joe Esposito, a business associate of Presley's since their Army days in Germany in 1959.

It had been reported that Esposito found Presley unconscious on the floor of his bathroom Tuesday, but in a new interview Presley's girlfriend, Ginger Alden, claimed she made the discovery.

Celebrities who attended the service were singer Ann-Margret, Presley's co-star in the movie "Viva Las Vegas," her husband, Roger Smith; actor George Hamilton; guitarist Chet Atkins; singer Jayne Morgan, and her husband Jerry Weintraub, who is manager of singer John Denver.

Farm crop price decreased noted

WASHINGTON (AP) — Consumer prices rose in July by the smallest amount in seven months as lower costs for producing food began showing up at supermarket shelves, the government said today.

The July increase of fourtenths of 1 per cent in the Consumer Price Index was the lowest since a similar rise in December 1976, the Labor Department said.

Food prices last month were listed as up one-tenth of 1 per cent last month, on a seasonally adjusted basis. Increases of seven-tenths were recorded in May and eight-tenths in June.

In a second government report out today, the Commerce Department is issuing a revised estimate of the nation's Gross National Product. An earlier report said the GNP grew during the quarter at an annual rate of 6.4 per cent.

Despite the improvement in the inflation outlook of the Consumer Price Index, workers spendable earnings were reported down slightly in July. The average worker's purchasing power declined one-tenth of 1 per cent, mainly because of the decline in the average number of hours worked, the Labor Department said.

The consumer price report showed that other commodities, such as household goods and autos also rose one-tenth of one per cent in July, but these had not contributed to the recent inflationary spiral as much as food.

The administration is counting on slower increases in food prices to reduce the inflation rate from 10 per cent at the beginning of the year to 6 per cent at the year's end.

If averaged out over the entire year, the July increase would mean a 4.8 per cent rate of inflation, a considerable improvement over the first half. Consumer prices had increased six-tenths of one per cent in each of the last two months.

The slower rise in food prices was expected by economists after farmers began receiving less for their crops than in the past three months.

Food bought in grocery stores declined one-tenth of one per cent, the first drop since last November. The main contributors were lower prices for beef, poultry, pork, fresh fruits, vegetables, sugar and ground coffee.

Food bought away from home, such as in restaurants, rose four-tenths of one per cent, less than half the average monthly increase in the first six months of the year.

The biggest contributor to inflation last month was in services, which rose eight-tenths of one per cent, about the same climb as for the past five months. Mortgage interest costs and charges for natural gas and electricity increased sharply. Medical care services and transportation services continued rising.

The prices of gasoline and motor oil dropped three-tenths of one per cent in July, about the same as in June, the department said. Prices rose two-tenths of one per cent for new cars, three-tenths for clothing and six-tenths for fuel oil and coal.

The over-all Consumer Price Index stood at 182.6, meaning that it cost $182.60 to buy goods that $100 would have purchased in 1967.

Air base finally finds plane pilot

DAYTON, Ohio (AP) -- When officials at Wright-Patterson Air Force Base agreed to lend a B25 Mitchell bomber to an Alabama museum, they didn't expect it to have trouble getting airborne for lack of a pilot.

No one at the base was qualified to fly the World War II-vintage bomber, which had been used in the movie "Catch 22" before being donated to the Air Force.

But a pilot was found in the Confederate Air Force, a civilian air corps which preserves old planes and operates them for air shows. The group sent North Central Airlines Capt. Lynn Florey of Minneapolis, who at 31 is four years younger than the aircraft he was sent to pilot. And the plane was off on the three-hour flight to the new Gen. Daniel "Chappie" James Air and Industrial Museum in Tuskegee, Ala.

Apology refusal cuts minister's trip short

DAR ES SALAAM, Tanzania (AP) -- French pride got the better of foreign policy today as Foreign Minister Louis de Guiringaud, angered by Tanzania's refusal to apologize for a hostile demonstration, cut short the last stop of a four-nation tour to promote French influence in Africa.

De Guiringaud was on a diplomatic mission engineered by President Valery Giscard d'Estaing to spread the message that French interest in Africa extends beyond its former colonies.

The initiative was seen as an attempt to outrun American influence in Africa. It ended prematurely when the Tanzanian government refused the foreign minister's demand that it apologize for the anti-French demonstration that greeted his arrival Thursday for a four-day visit.

About 200 students protesting French arms sales to the white government of South Africa briefly blocked the path of the French officials when they left their plane.

In an airport lounge, De Guiringaud refused to begin a news conference until Tanzanian Foreign Minister Ben Mkapa stopped the demonstration.

"It is your responsibility," the Frenchman said, pointing a finger at his Tanzanian host.

He threatened to cut short his visit and lectured Mkapa: "I am a representative of France. I have visited three African countries so far and this is the first time I have received this kind of welcome."

The demonstration continued while the two foreign ministers argued for 10 minutes, then De Guiringaud was driven to the city. He failed to show up for a scheduled meeting with Mkapa at the Foreign Ministry and instead sent a representative with a demand for an apology.

The ministry issued a brief statement saying the demand was "absolutely unacceptable and the visit has been called off."

The government-owned Daily News reported De Guiringaud canceled the visit and said Tanzania had no regrets.

"France still expects Africans to look at her as the 'mother country' or with respect usually reserved for big brothers," a front-page editorial said. "Monsieur le Ministre must be sulking this morning at the ingratitude of these Africans."

France announced two years ago that it was phasing out arms contracts with South Africa. During a visit to Zambia earlier in his tour, De Guiringaud denounced as "nothing but a lie" a Soviet report that a French nuclear generating plant sold to South Africa will be used to manufacture atomic weapons.

Elvis changed world, social specialist says

BOWLING GREEN, Ohio (AP) -- Elvis Presley's thousands of mourners, overlooking his recent slip in popularity, "are paying homage to a person who literally changed the world," says a specialist in social phenomena.

"Presley was more than a change in the music of the 1950s," said Ray B. Browne, director of the Center for the Study of Popular Culture at Bowling Green State University. "He was a revolution, the most influential popular music star of this century."

Presley died at his Memphis, Tenn., mansion of heart failure on Tuesday and was buried Thursday.

Browne said Presley broke into the early 1950s musical scene in the era of the big bands which played rhythmic music geared for "safe dancing."

With such hits as "Love Me Tender," "Heartbreak Hotel," and "You Ain't Nothing But a Hounddog," Presley's "raucous, nasal pumping rhythms and gyrating pelvis threw consternation into everyone," Browne said.

"Immediately taken up by the young, Presley's renditions terrified the older, more tradition-bound populace, especially the ladies because they saw rampant suggestiveness and seduction in his every performance," Browne explained.

To a certain extent, their fears were well founded, Browne said. As every revolution must have fertile soil as well as a prime mover, Presley's musical world was ready for a change.

The old big band tradition of music was dying, social and economic change was in the air and there was sexual restlessness among the young and old, Browne said. Older women feared the effect of Presley's music because they felt the attraction, too.

"One always disguises hidden attractions and senses of guilt by declaring them dangerous to the weak and defenseless."

FBI director urges successor to 'let people know the facts'

CINCINNATI (AP) -- FBI Director Clarence Kelley has urged his nominated successor to get out and "let the people know the true facts."

Kelley, in a speech to the local Rotary Club, noted a lack of confidence in the department, which he leaves on Jan. 1.

Frank M. Johnson has been named by President Carter to replace Kelley.

"He will have to travel about as I have done and he will have to make assurances that this is the way it is going to be," Kelley said of his successor's task on taking office.

Kelley offered Johnson his support, although he said he does not know him personally.

"I'm not shaking with fear at all about him being a judge," Kelley chuckled when asked about Johnson's background as a federal judge in Alabama.

After he retires, Kelley said he will be teaching at the University of Alabama at Birmingham and will be "writing books."

The current FBI chief said that he believed that past criticism of the department "need no longer be the basis for great fear."

"I leave with the feeling that the morale of the FBI has been assaulted, but there are no lacerations and nothing permanent."

Employee strike ban sets stage for Australia union showdown

CANBERRA, Australia (AP) -- The Australian Parliament outlawed strikes by government employees today, setting the stage for a showdown between the conservative government and the unions.

The government labor legislation and the introduction of a tax-cutting national budget two days ago increased expectations that Prime Minister Malcolm Fraser would seek an early national election to be fought on the issue of "who runs Australia."

The new labor law authorizes the government to fire public employees who strike and to lay off public employees who cannot work because of strikes against either the government or private companies.

Industrial Relations Minister Tony Street said the law would not be enforced "unless circumstances dictate." But it was clearly aimed at the week-long strike by 2,800 postal workers at the nation's central mail exchange in Sydney.

Stock market turns upward

NEW YORK (AP) --The stock market turned upward today with a lift from news of a slowdown in the rise of the consumer price index.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks picked up a point and a half in the early going.

Gainers took a 3-2 lead over losers among New York Stock Exchange-listed issues.

The government reported this morning that the consumer price index rose a seasonally adjusted 0.4 per cent in July for its smallest increase of the year.

Some less favorable news came from New York's Citibank, which raised its prime lending rate from 6 3/4 to 7 per cent. But analysts said traders were hopeful, based on the latest money-supply data, that the Federal Reserve would let up on its recent efforts to tighten credit by pushing interest rates upward.

On Thursday the Dow Jones industrial average failed to hold an early 6-point gain and closed with a .43 loss at a new 19-month low of 864.26.

Losers outnumbered gainers by a slight margin on the NYSE.

Big Board volume reached 21.04 million shares, against 20.92 million on Thursday.

The NYSE's composite index slipped .03 to 53.48.

On the American Stock Exchange, the market value index was up .14 at 119.23.

Comedian picked for Nobel Prize

KENOSHA, Wis. (AP) -- "I'm very proud," said comedian Jerry Lewis upon learning that he has been nominated for the Nobel Peace Prize by Rep. Les Aspin, D-Wis.

"Whether you win or lose, just to be in that company is magnificent," the entertainer said by telephone from Las Vegas, where he is appearing at the Hotel Sahara.

Aspin, who described Lewis as "a man for all seasons, all people and all times" whose name "has, in the hearts of millions, become synonymous with peace, love and brotherhood" said he nominated Lewis at the request of Kenneth Mills of Kenosha.

Mills, assistant director of instruction at Gateway Technical Institute, cited Lewis' work in raising over $95 million in annual telethons over the past 11 years for muscular dystrophy as one of the reasons for the nomination.

Hermit crab race slated in Dayton

DAYTON, Ohio (AP) -- The nearest ocean where crabs can be found is no closer than 500 miles, but preparations are under way for the first annual Dayton metropolitan World Cup hermit crab race.

Crab enthusiast and race promoter Jim Johnson, 33, said the race is set for Saturday afternoon outside the import shop he operates in suburban Washington Township, one of few area stores selling crabs.

With no speed limits on township books relating to crab races, the competition is expected to be fast. The spiderlike crustaceans will be racing to win their owners prizes ranging from an aquarium to $2 worth of tropical fish.

'Fast food' school lunch

The Department of Agriculture and local school authorities across the country have been wrestling with the problem of wasted food in the federally subsidized school lunch program. They also have been seeking ways to improve the program's basic function of meeting school children's nutritional needs.

Both these aspects of the matter have just been highlighted in a report from the General Accounting Office. It concludes that often the nature of the midday meal offered to pupils "encourages waste" - a way of saying that the children don't find the food to their liking and dump much of it into the waste containers.

The GAO also says there is reason to believe that some of the food tends to make children fat and doesn't provide the right kind of nutrition.

It is good to know that the Agriculture Department plans changes in the basic school lunch intended to make it both nutritionally better and more acceptable to pupils. Meanwhile, the approach being considered in Saginaw, Mich., is noteworthy. School authorities there are worried about the interrelated problems of waste and persistent school lunch program deficits. They hope to switch to so-called "fast food" in the high school cafeterias - pizza, hamburgers, milk shakes and other teen-age favorites.

The idea is that such lunch items, fortified with added nutrients and vitamins to assure good nutrition, will be popular with the students. That would make for less waste and bigger food purchases - the latter a crucial factor in determining the amount of federal subsidies received by the school system.

If the proposed fast food menu meets Agriculture Department standards, the plan will be tried. We like the underlying rationale, as stated by a school official: "What we're trying to do is get food values to these youngsters in a form that they might eat." That is the name of the game.

A WORD EDGEWISE...By John P. Roche

The right to stop incitements

Retreating from his Middle East invasion, Secretary of State Cyrus Vance must have the feeling he was accidentally starred in a Marx Brothers movie. In fairness to Cy, who is anything but a fool, he anticipated the crisis before his departure. But as the Leader of the Free World bubbled with enthusiastic optimism, the Secretary had to go through with the charade. It is doubtful that the Arab states orchestrated the events subsequent, but - if the fundamental problem was not so serious - the whole sequence had elements of high farce.

The first act was underway before Vance departed, consisting of President Carter's disillusionment with Israeli Premier Menachem Begin, and then an interview with "Time." The first resulted from one of those mix-ups Jimmy has almost turned into an art-form: Carter finished his meetings with Begin convinced the latter was behind the American program 1000 per cent. Begin left 1000 per cent in favor of what he understood to be the American program: namely, let the Middle East locals work it out, and no "imposed settlement."

Then Begin acted brashly: returning to Israel, he legalized three Jewish settlements in the formerly Jordanian occupied West Bank. (Contrary to journalistic wisdom, which seems to have penetrated government circles, Jordan does not have residual sovereignty over the West Bank - its armies seized the area in 1947-48). Mr. Carter was annoyed. Begin had promised to restrain new settlements in Samaria. Begin pointed out these were not new settlements, and the President admitted he forgot to include existing settlements. Since Mr. Begin is Premier of Israel, not a foreign affairs aide to President Carter, it's hard to see why the Israeli should be blamed for lousy American negotiating technique.

Probably still riled at Begin's literal mindedness, the President then had a backgrounder with a clutch of "Time" correspondents in which he clearly "tilted" against Israel and for an imposed settlement. In essence, he said that if, at an Arab-Israeli Conference, Begin refused to accept a consensus, a propaganda campaign would be launched against him in Israel, among the American Jewish community, in Western Europe, and the Arab nations. Also, Begin knows of the "unofficial" meeting between former Ambassador William Scranton and spokesmen for the Palestine Liberation Organization (PLO), which reliable sources indicate did not focus on a Palestinian homeland in Pennsylvania. In fact the result was a fake PLO peace flurry to enliven Vance's trip.

A man less loyal than Vance would have defected to the joys of the Riviera and rested at Juan les Pins while the dust settled, but doggedly he headed for Egypt and that jolly gangster, President Anwar Sadat. "Relax," Sadat indicated, "it's in the bag. The Israelis won't go to a meeting where the PLO is officially represented, so let's hold a preliminary foreign minister's meeting of Egypt, Syria, Jordan and possibly Lebanon. The PLO can't field a foreign minister, so we can by-pass that procedural quagmire and get the negotiations moving." Very constructive.

"By the way," Sadat noted, "I haven't mentioned this to my brother, President Assad of Syria. You tell him about it when you get to Damascus." Then, as Vance left with this dead camel for delivery to Assad, Sadat got his "clarification" crew into high gear. Actually, what he really seriously meant was that the Americans should hold separate meetings at the foreign minister level with the various antagonists - in the official phrase - "not a joint meeting." He also told Yasser Arafat of the PLO he never wobbled for a moment on the issue of Palestinian representation. A day full of laughs.

On to Damascus, dead camel and all, went brave Cyrus. The plane was hardly on the ground before the knacker's wagon came for the poor dead beast. Assad is not noted for his sense of humor, and is rumored to suspect Sadat of practical jokes, of treating him like an Alawi hick.

Besides, the PLO - after that sanguinary showdown in Lebanon - now belongs to Syria. In short, the PLO is Assad's piece to play, and Sadat has no business trying to swipe it. So Vance went back to "Go" without collecting 200 piastres: no PLO representation, no conference.

Then to Amman, to Jerusalem, Taif, Damascus, Alexandria, Bedlam... and finally back to old Uncle Sugar Able. All in all a preposterous enterprise, and so unnecessary, because it was founded on the premise that the Israelis are, particularly with a Likud government, just a bunch of stubborn Talmudic crackpots - not a nation living in the shadow of the galleons.

Sadat's end-man, Foreign Minister Ismail Fahmi, gave the game away in late June when he notified American officials their real function was to get the Jews out of the Middle East. "We won't ask the United States to force this on Israel," he said, but it would be helpful in reaching a settlement. Thanks.

Ohio Perspective

Sponsors studying strike bill effect

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Legislative sponsors of a controversial bill establishing a limited right to strike for public employees are assessing damages their cause may have suffered in the highly publicized firemen's strike in Dayton.

The chief sponsor, Sen. Harry Meshel, D-33 Youngstown, says he is sure many Ohioans found the actions of the firemen in refusing to answer emergency calls "repugnant."

He added "they would have been better off if they had responded to emergency situations while continuing to press for their demands."

Meshel said sponsors of the legislation now face the task of educating the public about the background of the Dayton dispute. He wants to call city officials to Columbus to testify when the legislature returns from summer recess Sept. 19.

The senator noted that Dayton's firemen had been without a contract since February. And he said his bill been in place prior to that time, fact finding, mediation, arbitration and other procedures contained in it could have averted the walkout.

His bill in differing versions already has been approved by both houses of the legislature, but was left pending in a joint conference committee when the lawmakers adjourned July 29 for a seven-week recess.

Gov. James A. Rhodes couldn't resist some homespun humor when officials of Montgomery Ward & Co. came to Columbus for the announcement of a new multi-million dollar catalog distribution center in Cincinnati.

Surrounded by newsmen in the governor's cabinet room, James Lutz, executive vice president of the big mail order firm, presented Rhodes with an 1875 edition of a Montgomery Ward catalog, as well as the latest edition for the fall of 1977.

With a grin spreading across his face, Rhodes quipped, "We used to use these the year around in Jackson County (Rhodes' birthplace)."

The room roared with laughter.

The State Controlling Board turned down a request from the lottery commission to purchase a fleet of 38 new air conditioned cars and station wagons without taking competitive bids from various dealers.

It wanted to buy the vehicles from Marshall Motor Co. of Mayfield Heights for $200,622, at an average price of about $5,300. The commission has missed an earlier deadline for the purchases to be made on its behalf through normal state bidding procedures.

Dear Abby:

ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

Walkers don't talk to wheelchair mate

DEAR ABBY: My husband had polio as a child. He's been confined to a wheelchair for nearly 30 years, but can do everything an able-bodied man can do - excepting walk. Now for my pet peeve: When we are in a restaurant, a well-meaning but thoughtless waitress invariably turns to me and asks, "And what will HE have?"

This has happened to me so often that I now have a standard reply: "He is perfectly capable of telling you. Why don't you ask him?"

Abby, it is amazing the number of people who assume that because someone is in a wheelchair, he is completely helpless and unable to communicate.

Please print my letter. It might wake up some folks who think a physically handicapped person can neither think nor speak for himself. Thank you!

FED UP
DEAR FED UP: Your message is an important one. And while we're on the subject of showing consideration for the physically handicapped, when you are speaking to someone in a wheelchair for more than a minute, please draw up a chair and sit down so that you will both be on the same eye level. Forcing him to look up at you gives him a pain in the neck. Literally!

DEAR ABBY: I'm an orchestra director who frequently gets requests to play a number in honor of a wedding anniversary. I always get a laugh when on the occasion of the first wedding anniversary I play, "Night and Day."

For the fifth anniversary, I play, "Saturday Night."

For the 10th anniversary, I play, "Once in a While."

For the 25th anniversary, I play, "Now and Then."

And for the 50th anniversary, I play, "Thanks For The Memories."

What do you suggest for anniversaries over 50?

OPEN TO SUGGESTIONS
DEAR OPEN: How about, "We Did It Before and We Can Do It Again?"

DEAR ABBY: The letter from HAD, who ordered and paid $5 for "grass" and in return received lawn clippings, was hilarious.

It reminded me of another ad, years ago, to "Send $1 for the secret of success." Those responding received a fishhook with the advice, "Catch suckers like we do."

CONVULSED
CONFIDENTIAL TO ALICE: Don't marry a drinking man. A man who won't stay sober for his sweetheart would never stay sober for his wife.

Police set Christian pace

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Sgt. Jim Higgins, a 29-year veteran of the San Francisco Police Department, expresses despair at the "macho image" of insensitive, hard-drinking, boisterous policemen.
"A man can get a heart of stone doing police work and his love for others shrivels up and drifts away," said Higgins.

The shrill sergeant is deeply involved in a small but growing group of law enforcement agents who have formed the Fellowship of Christian Peace Officers. Twenty-five officers belong to the San Francisco chapter with other units in Oakland, Los Angeles and other cities.

Sgt. Art Brandwood, president of the fellowship's 10-member Oakland chapter, said trying to spread the Gospel among policemen is a difficult challenge.

He said many officers look on Christianity as "a weakness, a crutch that's alright for women, children and old people — but not for the rugged, he-man type of guy."

However, Brandwood said "God is dealing with that attitude" through the example of others in police ranks who are respected for physical prowess and proven ability as cops "and who still love and serve Christ."

Higgins and his partner, Sgt. Jim Crowley, made an appeal for prayers last October on the Virginia-based Christian Television Network. They decried San Francisco as a "wicked city that needs all the prayers it can get."

Their religious message to anyone who will listen involves an evangelical attack on pornography, drug addiction, homosexuality and San Francisco's high rate of alcoholism, suicide and venereal disease.

Last summer, Crowley got embroiled in a public spat with his own police chief, Charles Gain, when Gain urged gay policemen to come out of the closet.

The husky Crowley said he considered homosexuals as "the deceived who are deceiving others and leading them down the path to Satan. Only Jesus can break that bondage."

Crowley and Higgins said they pray daily that Gain and Mayor George Moscone will "finally come to the Lord."

Diocese seeking educator

The Episcopal Diocese of Southern Ohio is currently searching for a diocesan-level administrator for their Christian educational system.

The search committee has sent position announcements to clergy and lay professionals in the Christian education field throughout the diocese to fill the newly-created post, titled, Christian Education Minister. The committee is accepting nominations for job-candidates from any parishioner in the diocese. However, they are requesting that the nominees be notified of their nomination before it is made.

Nominees must have "responsible experience" in the area of Christian education, be committed to parochial education and possess at least two earned academic degrees or their equivalent. The search committee also asks that nominees be submitted to local parish rectors and then be sent to the church headquarters in Cincinnati. The nominees need not be Southern Ohio residents at the time they are nominated.

The position was established along with four regional coordinator positions following a year-long study conducted for the Diocese Council by Dr. Frances Young, a former staff member of the New York-based Executive Council. During the last diocese convention, Christian education was selected as the top ranking priority among the areas of concern for the Episcopal Church.
From Dr. Young's recommendations, the council appointed Rev. LeRoy Hall, diocese planning and program officer, to form a Christian Education Task Force, through which the education minister and regional directors will operate. As established by the council, these personnel will initiate the school system's educational policy and develop education and study programs.

Nominations should be made as soon as possible. For more information contact your rector.

The Rev. Walter L. Plummer, pastor of the First United Methodist Church in Lancaster, will speak at the 7 p.m. worship service Sunday. He has held district and conference offices through the years and in 1971, was appointed superintendent of the Columbus North United Methodist District. He graduated from Ohio Wesleyan University and Oberlin College's Graduate School of Theology. He also served in the U.S. Army Transportation Corps aboard transports in both the Atlantic and Pacific theaters during WW II.

The evening service will begin with vespers featuring Curt and Charlotte Davis, the camp ground's music directors.

Under the direction of Austin Whitaker, the "Praise Singers" from the Maize Manor United Methodist Church will present an afternoon concert of gospel music written by Bill Gaiter. The concert is scheduled for 2:30 p.m. Sunday.

On Sunday, Sept. 4, a gospel singing group from Atlanta, Ga., the "LeFevres," will present the afternoon concert at 2:30. Tickets are available at $2 per person. Admission to children under 12 is free.

Mr. and Mrs. Keith Hart return from Myrtle Beach, S.C.

Altar baskets and two pedestal arrangements of white gladioli and pink carnations accented the background for the wedding of Miss Brenda Prater and Keith Hart on July 31, in Grace United Methodist Church. A massive arrangement of flowers centered the altar. Triple seven-branch candelabra were decorated with greenery, baby's breath and pink satin bows. Palms were on each side of the chancel. The pews were marked with aisle candles entwined with smilax and pink satin bows.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Luster Prater of McArthur, and the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Victor Hart Jr. of Bloomingburg.

The Rev. James L. Henderson of Nashville, Tenn., performed the double-ring ceremony. Joy Henderson, daughter of the Rev. and Mrs. James L. Henderson, and Doug Joseph presented wedding songs.

Given in marriage by her parents, Miss Prater wore a white chapel length gown of poly organza with Venice lace accents on the high neckline, empire bodice and full bishop sleeves. Her flounced attached chapel length train was accented with Venice lace inserts. She wore a crown of lace that outlined the face, and her illusion veil was fingertip length. She carried a cascade of red sweetheart roses and white Stephanotis with fern and white peccot streamers.

The attendants were maid of honor Miss Pam Cecil of McArthur, Mrs. Sharon Older of Washington C.H., and Mrs. Lucille Andrews of McArthur sisters of the bride, Mrs. Rita Ankrom of Washington C.H. and Miss Denise Mitchell of Cincinnati, the bridesmaids. They wore long pink polyester knit gowns with scoop keyhole neckline, cap sleeves and silk embroidered rose at the waistline, with set in satin belt which tied in the back. Each wore a matching floppy hat with a sprig of baby's breath and a miniature red rose on the side. Each carried a colonial bouquet of red roses, pink carnations and baby's breath with streamers of ribbon.

Mrs. Prater chose for her daughter's marriage a formal length blue knit lace ensemble with matching lace jacket. The groom's mother wore a long cream colored knit dress with floral butterfly sleeves, V-neckline and sash in the back. Both mothers had purse corsages of pink sweetheart roses and baby's breath.

Beauties of nature are studied by Posy Garden Club members

Fourteen members of the Posy Garden club met at the home of Mrs. Harry Thrailkill for a workshop and meeting to study nature as designer. Shells rival flowers in design and beauty. They have been homes for crustaceans animals of the sea, when the animal dies the shells are washed by salt water and deposited on the beaches by the tides.

As garden club members, all should strive to be visually alert to all beauties of nature; the intricate design of a sunflower seed head, the unfolding of the beautiful white trumpet of the datura in the evening, the formation of wax cells in a honey comb and the seashells, each different, unless a whole clam shell is found.

Many uses for many of these "leftovers" of nature are found in homes, making of pine cone wreaths, honey comb candles, beautiful pieces of driftwood, and seed collages are just a few of the ways the discards of nature may be used.

Mrs. Thrailkill taught the club members to cover containers with shells, which she had collected on the Florida beaches. Several members also made interesting mobiles of shells, seed pods, small pieces of driftwood and fish line. Each had an unusual "treasure" to take home and, after sorting and gluing the shells, all agree that "Nature is the greatest designer".

The club delegates to the Ohio Association of Garden Club Convention, Mrs. Jess Schlichter and Mrs. Arthur Schlichter, gave a short report of business meetings. There are 588 clubs in 77 counties in the state. Colored snapshots of the convention flower show, the three gardens visited, and arrangements made by Bob Thomas were enjoyed.

Members visited the Thrailkill gardens where 90 varieties of dahlias were in full bloom. Mrs. Thrailkill explained what to look for in a good specimen flower. Form, substance, color, size, foliage and stem are all considered in judging a dahlia as well as bloom placement. She also has an herb garden and several butternut seedling trees grown from nuts received at a Region 16 fall meeting.

The guests enjoyed the beautiful tea table, set with antique plates, cups and saucers, centered with an attractive collection of coral and colorful seashells. # Average employed man spends much time at non-work activity

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst
NEW YORK (AP) — The average employed man spends a lot more time each day at nonwork activities, such as coffee breaks and relaxing, than does the typical working woman, an ongoing study at the University of Michigan shows.

Analysis of the data, which began in 1974 and which will be continued to encompass other ways in which men and women use their time, is adding powerful documentation to the assertion that despite equal rights legislation, it's still a man's world.

A separate study, based on some of the data uncovered by Michigan's Survey Research Center, shows also that work inequality extends into the home where, said a researcher, "The men really don't help much."

To date, the study has found that the typical employed man spends 52 minutes or 11 per cent of each paid working day at nonwork activities, while the average woman spends just 35 minutes, or 8 per cent, away from assigned tasks.

The minutes and percentages exclude the lunch hour, but do include extensions of it beyond the allotted time, as well as coffee breaks and other forms of relaxation, including conversation.

The same researchers have less solid evidence indicating that the work day is effort expended during the work day is greater for women than for men.

The glaring differences, said Greg Duncan, study director, appear to be rooted in the kinds of jobs commonly assigned to men and women. "Women are more closely supervised and unable to take the breaks men do," he said.

Despite the more relaxed working day for men, the study found they make about $7 an hour, in contrast to the working woman's $4.34. And when rates are adjusted for break time, Duncan said, the figures become $8.48 and $4.86, respectively.

Adding to the disparity in the work day, the researchers found through a more subjective and less validated portion of the study that women expend 112 per cent more effort than men during the time each is working.

The studies have great potential for explaining what has often been referred to as the lagging rate of productivity increase in the United States. As Duncan said, the 40-hour week does not mean people are working 40 hours.

Perhaps of even greater importance is the use made by women of the unfolding story of inequality. While it is not a subject on which the professors express learned opinions, it is bound to find its way into labor negotiations — and even into the marriage contract.

John P. Robinson, one of the researchers and author of the recently published book, "How America Uses Time," has found that women continue to perform most household chores, even when they become fulltime "market" workers.

"The man does very little even when the woman goes to work," said Robinson, who is also director of communications research at Cleveland State University. "Women do 80 per cent of housework and childcare," he said.

Women whose main occupation is within the home usually are occupied by household chores about 50 hours a week, and even when they take on a full-time commercial job they put in another 25 hours at home.

"Under those conditions the wife's time is greatly constrained," he said. "She really gets squeezed," he added. "The men really don't help much." The man does nine hours of housework if his wife is not employed outside, but adds only one hour a week to that schedule when she leaves the house to work.

Computer art helps students

AKRON, Ohio (AP) — Technicians at the University of Akron have computers that draw, with commands that anyone can learn to apply.

PLOTALL is the trade name for the nontechnical language that tells a computer to draw. Designers of PLOTALL say now computers can do such artwork as statistical graphs and charts.

The language needed to program the computer to draw is simple, according to Michael Klein of the University of Akron's computer center. He's the chief developer of the system, which requires "plain English" to set into motion.

For example, directions for a graph

"No other activity has the sex differential there is in housework and childcare," Robinson asserted. Men seldom do the laundry, clean up after meals or make the bed, he said. And they assume only 20 per cent of childcare.

A further breakdown of childcare chores continues to reveal the same distinctions, or injustices if it is chosen to view them as such. That 20 per cent is made up of play-education, whereas women do the feeding and dressing.

The intent of the studies is not specifically to show distinctions between the sexes but to gain a view of how America as a whole spends its time. The male-female findings are just one of the results.

on the Gross National Product would be stated in sentences, not symbols. It's as easy as telling the computer, "The title is Gross National Product. Make the X-axis yearly, starting with 1930."

After the instructions are in, the computer does the rest. It draws, outlines and shades in.

Klein says the system already benefits students and faculty at the university, and the administration asks the computer to draw its monthly and quarterly reports.

A license agreement is needed to use the PLOTALL system, which is written for IBM 360-370 computer systems. Licenses cost $500 for educational institutions, and $1,000 for industrial users.

For students planning to transfer

Pre-professional programs offered at Southern State

WILMINGTON, Ohio -- Southern State College offers a two-year associate of arts degree program. This pre-professional curriculum is for the student who will be seeking a bachelor degree and will transfer to a four-year institution. Areas of concentration are individually designed to transfer to the four-year college of the student's choice.

The associate of arts program has several advantages. The student can stay at home and attend classes. The cost is considerably less. A chance for exploring occupational goals through individualized counseling is available. The adjustment to college is easier because of the small size of classes and the closeness between students and faculty.

Pre-professional two-year programs for transfer are available at Southern State in the following areas:

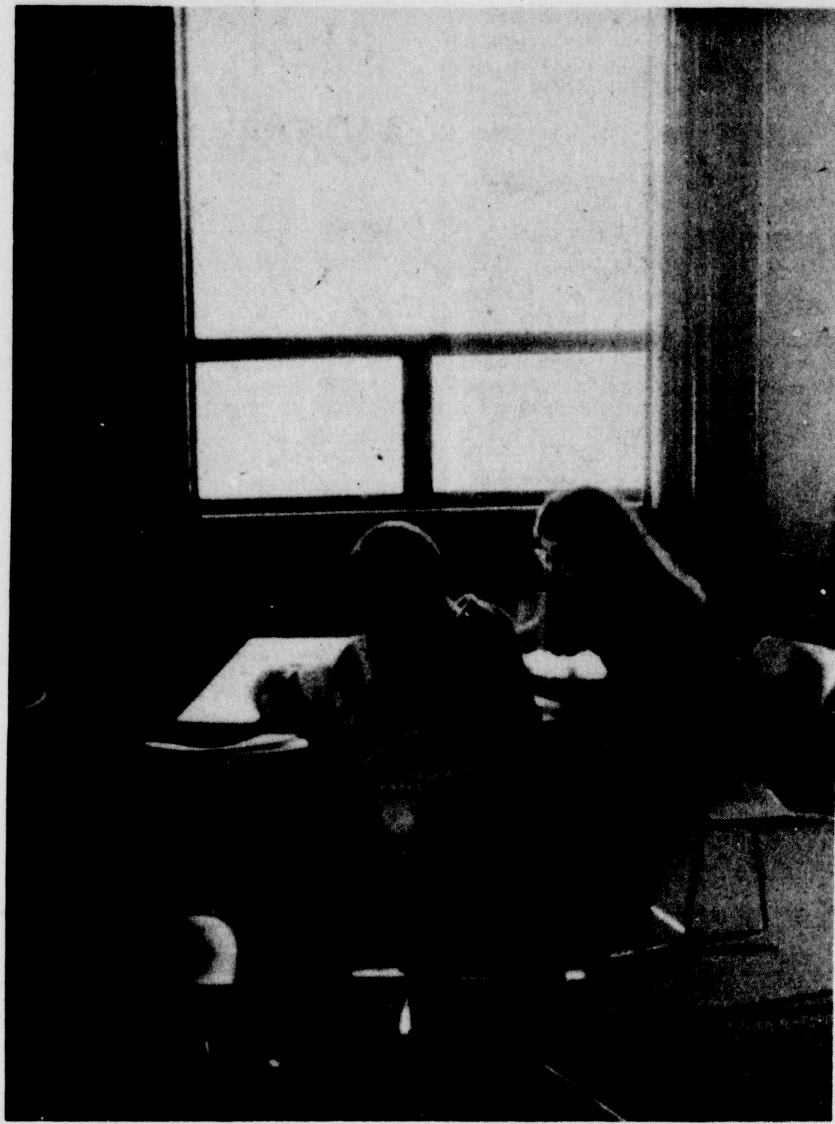

Education -- Elementary, secondary and business.

Social Sciences -- Business, history, psychology, law, social work, and sociology.

Humanities, Fine Arts -- Art, communication, English, journalism and theater.

Mathematics, Sciences -- Chemistry, dentistry, medicine, pharmacy, veterinary. It is important to remember that all programs are designed individually, but they contain a core curriculum in English, Social Science, Math and/or Science, and Humanities, common to all pre-professional programs.

What seems to be very complicated is made easy to understand by a counseling session with a Southern State College faculty member. A track record of open admissions blended with a personal commitment to correct course selection has produced satisfied students who are now pursuing bachelors programs in colleges or universities throughout Ohio.

Columbus test site for new TV system

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) -- Late this year television viewers here will be able to satisfy a desire the rest of the country has to stifle. They can talk back to their TV sets.

Warner Cable Corp., a subsidiary of Warner Communications Inc., has chosen Columbus as the test market for its two-way television programming system called QUBE.

QUBE will offer 30 channels of programming, selected by pushing a panel of buttons on a home control box. But it's five black buttons on the right side of the terminal which make QUBE unique.

"For the first time, viewers will be able to actively participate in the program they're watching," according to J. Ronald Castell, QUBE's vice president of marketing. Castell envisions TV games in which viewers can compete by pushing one of the five buttons. "We may even have some games in which people in one suburb will play these games against people in another suburb or husbands will play against their wives," Castell said.

Viewers also will be able to take college courses, bridge lessons, macramé instruction and cooking classes with the two-way system, Castell said.

Warner, which has a franchise for part of Columbus, plans to offer QUBE to its 28,000 current subscribers in the city by late November or early December. The company is projecting that the service will increase subscribers to about half of its potential of 100,000 by the end of 1978. Columbus is Warner's largest cable outlet.

Along with eight local and out-of-town television channels, QUBE will offer channels devoted entirely to news, religious programming, business and sports. Another channel will offer 12 hours a day of programs aimed at 2-to 5-year-olds.

"Sure it's a babysitter channel," admits Lawrence B. Hilford, QUBE president. "But we think it offers alternatives to a number of negatives children encounter on television...no violence and no commercials."

Ten channels cost extra. They include the game shows, first-run and classic movies, cultural and popular entertainment, sports specials and the college-at-home channel. They also include an adult movie channel. "We'll only go to an R rating," Castell said. "No 'Deep Throat' on QUBE."

Castell said QUBE will cost $10 to $11 a month. Warner's current rates for cable television are about $7.50 monthly.

Murder-suicide case reported

HAMILTON, Ohio (AP) -- A Ft. Wayne, Ind., man and his former mother-in-law were found dead in the woman's kitchen Thursday, apparent victims of a murder-suicide, according to Butler County police.

The victims were identified as Troy Wyrick, 31, and Mercedes Boseke, 51, of Hamilton.

Dayton police seek agreement

DAYTON, Ohio (AP) -- City and police representatives meet again today in an effort to reach a contract agreement without a police strike.

Negotiators for police allowed labor and political leaders Thursday to give third-party points of view in the policemen's ongoing struggle with city officials over wages.

Joe Shump, Montgomery County treasurer and local Democratic party chairman and Wesley Wells, a local labor leader, urged negotiators for the police union to reach a responsible and quick settlement with the city. Shump was one of 12 political, business and labor leaders who signed a letter to the FOP asking for responsible negotiations. The letter said the threatened strike by 479 police is giving Dayton a bad reputation.

Wells, president of Local 7755 of the International Union of Electrical Workers at the Chrysler AirTemp Plant in Dayton, is a personal friend of Ron Brandenburg, one of FOP negotiators.

After the meeting Thursday, Shump said that he hopes an agreement is reached without a strike.

A negotiating session is set for Friday afternoon between city officials and FOP negotiators.

Associated Press reporter clowns around at state fair

Editor's Note: Ever want to parade around the big top as a clown? This AP reporter did and set out to see if he could join the circus.

By STEVEN R. HURST
Associated Press Writer
COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The word spread among aficionados. The big one, Ringling Bros. and Barnum & Bailey Circus, was holding a clown tryout.

Images of long train rides with exotic Bulgarian tumbling acts flashed immediately to mind.

And it wasn't all selfish. I told myself. The world needs another Emmett Kelly. I could visualize the spotlight pounding down, the sawdust under foot, the enraptured children gazing fixedly at me around mounds of cotton candy.

Tryout day dawned cool and hazy. My feet hit the floor and the butterflies slumbering overnight began a new flight.

By midmorning I had made it to the Ohio State Fair where five others sat uneasily in the green room waiting a turn. Ron and Sandy Severini — "We were married in makeup and costume in center ring in the Los Angeles Forum" — were waiting in full dress.

"We're looking for a maximum of 50 students for the Clown College," Ron said. How many applications will you get? I asked. Kenneth Feld, son of the circus' owner, answered: "Between 3,000 and 4,000."

Hopes fell among hopefuls sitting uneasily on folding chairs.

Ron explained the eight-week course is given at the circus' winter headquarters in Venice, Fla. Not a bad spot to spend the fall, I reasoned.

When the lucky students master a modicum of mime and tumbling, have their funnybones greased, Feld and his father Irvin Feld would sit in judgment. About 20 of the students would make the tour.

"I need a volunteer," shouted Ron, pulling me back from my calculations on my chances. My arm shot up. "Yes, yes. Step up here for our makeup demonstration."

On went the floppy pants, suspenders of course. Then a vest. Then the real artwork by Sandy, topped by a red wig and a yellow top hat that wouldn't stand upright.

A look in the mirror and I was laughing at myself. The reporter who had walked in moments before had retreated behind clown makeup into anonymity.

Ron called for some balloon tricks. The one he handed me was made of rubber the thickness of a bicycle inner tube. The audience broke apart as my face turned red. A good sign, I thought. "Now curtsy," Ron said, and added: "Next."

A big guy with a pretty decent juggling act stood up. Next was a young man with clown training during theater courses in college. Then came a passable act with lots of tumbling.

"You'll know our decision late in August," Ken said. He and Sandy are assistant deans at the school. Applications were handed out. A quick glance showed more queries about the applicant's emotional makeup than most academic colleges want.

"We figure the right answers to these questions means we have a clown on our hands. We can teach the right person the tricks," Feld said.

I told him it was just in fun, my being there. I wasn't really serious about the gypsy life, the glamour, all that, I told myself.

Ah, but wouldn't...Never mind.

Traffic Court

A local man was found guilty of having physical control of a vehicle while under the influence of alcohol during a trial by court Thursday in Washington C.H. Municipal Court.

Roger L. Wilson, 22, Bloomingburg, New Holland Road, was sentenced to three days in the Fayette County jail for the conviction. Municipal Court Judge John P. Case also fined Wilson $200 and costs.

Wilson was charged with the traffic violation early Thursday morning by Washington C.H. police officers near the intersection of Millikan Avenue and N. Hinde Street.

Cited by Fayette County sheriff's deputies Wednesday, Brian D. Bonner, 18, of Jeffersonville, signed a waiver and paid a $40 fine, including costs, on a charge of littering from a motor vehicle.

A number of other waivers for speeding violations issued by Ohio Highway Patrol troopers were also signed during Municipal Court proceedings Thursday. Paying fines and costs were: Robert Smith, 33, of Springfield, Mass., $35; Carl R. Gross, 24, Athens, $30; Robert M. Scott, 35, Xenia, $30; Rose C. Line, 44, Lima, $35; Thomas L. Fletcher, 30, of Cincinnati, $30; and Barbara G. White, 24, St. Albans, W.Va., $25.

Wheat prices near parity levels

WASHINGTON (AP) — According to Agriculture Department calculations, the economic well-being of wheat growers generally has fallen to the levels of 1933, when the federal government began extensive programs of adjusting the farm economy.

The prices they are getting this summer are not the worst but are getting close to a percentage of the calculated parity price.

In mid-July, the combined average for all types of wheat produced was $2 a bushel. That's 40 per cent of the parity price of $5.05.

As a percentage of parity, the average wheat prices for one season hit bottom in 1931, with 36 per cent.

When grain stocks in other countries were depleted in 1973 and U.S. exports began to boom, the peak of 118 per cent was reached.

The parity price is not a direct measure of farm income, which chief USDA economist Howard Hjort says will fall to 1971 levels this year.

But it does reflect at a given time the price a farmer should get for a bushel of wheat to achieve the financial harmony the law says existed in the 1910-1914 period.

Many figures are cranked into the calculation, which the department is required to make, each month. Most are averages that a farmer with a mortgage and a typical family's needs may have some difficulty identifying with.

The prices the farmer pays for the articles and services that he must buy are included, along with the general level of all farm prices, interest rates, wage rates, taxes and government income supplements and price supports.

Few of those items go down as does the price of a commodity after big harvests.

Agriculture Secretary Bob Bergland says, "I see no hope for wheat-price improvement this year" in the cash market. Upcoming increases in government payment levels will help growers' incomes but not raise the effective market price beyond $2.25 a bushel, the USDA loan rate.

The Economic Research Service says that "seasonal price rises of 5 to 10 per cent have occurred in earlier years when prices were near the loan rate."

That's a dime or two a bushel next spring, not enough to exceed the loan rate. Moreover, dwindling storage space is forcing many farmers to sell into the glutted market rather than wait.

Some tentative hope was raised Thursday with new estimates of world grain trade, production and stocks for the current season. The Foreign Agricultural Service trimmed its forecast of the total wheat and coarse grains carryover stocks next June 30 from a potential record of 195.8 million metric tons to 186.2 million.

But that would still be the largest stockpile since 1970, more than 10 per cent above this summer's price-smothering carryover.

The estimate also is tentative, because it was based on lower projections for Russian spring-wheat and U.S. corn harvests that may be raised again because of recent better weather.

"It will take a kicker on the demand side — more specifically from exports — to push prices up more than seasonally," the Aug. 1 ERS analysis states. "Such a push could come from a shortfall in the world's wheat crop, the world's feedgrain crop or the world rice crop. However, at this time all three crops look good."

Municipal Court

Two Fayette County men were convicted of assault charges stemming from separate incidents in Washington C.H. Municipal Court Thursday.

Municipal Court Judge John P. Case found 22-year-old Rick H. Penwell, 615 1/2 Columbus Ave., guilty of assaulting his girlfriend and sentenced him to 10 days in the Fayette County jail. The judge also levied a fine of $100 and costs for the violation.

Penwell was arrested by Washington C.H. police officers on a private warrant in the early morning Wednesday.

At the time of his arrest, he was also charged with criminal mischief in connection with an related incident at 419 East St. Penwell also appeared before Judge Case on that charge Thursday and received another sentence of 15 days in the county jail. However, five days of that sentence was suspended on the condition Penwell replace the window he damaged in the incident. In addition, Penwell will pay a fine of $100 plus costs for that violation.

In another hearing on Thursday, Robert E. Bennett, 20, of Milledgeville, was found guilty of assault, sentenced to 10 days in the Fayette County jail and fined $35 and costs. The Municipal Court judge suspended the jail term providing Bennett does not violate any laws for one year.

He had been arrested on a private warrant Thursday morning by Fayette County sheriff's deputies.

Benefits bill inked by Rhodes

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Widows and survivors of township policemen, killed in the line of duty, will be entitled to the same benefits as other fallen officers under an emergency bill signed into law Thursday by Gov. James A. Rhodes.

Rep. Larry H. Christman, D-67 Englewood, sponsored the legislation which assures benefits from the Ohio Police and Firemen's Disability and Pension Fund.

Two other immediately effective, emergency bills were signed by the governor Thursday, one of which again affects police, and firemen as well.

That enactment extends coverage of "good samaritan" statutes to police and firemen, exempting them from personal liability when they administer aid to a victim at the scene of accident or fire.

The third measure limits to six months any driver's license suspension prior to June 23, 1976, ordered under Ohio's penalty point system, to a period of six months.

Sponsors of that legislation said it was needed to conform earlier suspensions, as nearly as possible, to those contained in revisions of the penalty point system enacted on the 1976 date.

Also approved by Rhodes, with regular 90-day effective dates, were measures to:

—Allow corporations to absorb expenses for deducting authorized political contributions from employee salaries, notwithstanding an existing law against corporate political contributions.

—Extend for periods of up to 15 years tax exemptions given for improvements of one and two-unit dwellings under community reinvestment programs.

Examiners eye school deficit

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The New Richmond Exempted Village School District in Clermont County faces a year-end deficit of nearly $250,000, the state auditor's office has determined.

State examiners said Thursday that Superintendent of Public Instruction Franklin B. Walter would be the one to decide whether to delay opening of school by 21 days or close 21 days early due to the district's predicted financial shortage of $249,021.

The auditor's office added that if unemployment compensation payments were allowed for the short-tended school term, the New Richmond school board would have to delay opening by another seven days to offset the cost. The seven-day delay would cost an estimated $114,698.

Auditors said opening could be delayed from Aug. 29 to Sept. 26, or closing for the Christmas holidays would arrive on Nov. 22.

On building postponement

Kent State trustees to study court order

KENT, Ohio (AP) — Kent State University trustees planned an evening meeting today to review a court-ordered halt to campus construction on a site where some would prefer to see a memorial to four antiwar protesters slain in 1970.

The meeting was scheduled for 5 p.m. at the university's North Canton campus. A spokesman said the session would deal with "matters of imminent and impending litigation."

U.S. District Court Judge Thomas D. Lambros of Cleveland on Thursday told the university to postpone construction of a $6 million gymnasium annex, at least until Aug. 24.

That's when the 6th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals said Thursday it would review a ruling by Lambros the day before, which said the university was within its authority to construct the annex.

The latest rulings by Lambros and the appeals court came at the request of the May 4th Coalition, which opposes the building claiming it would desecrate the site where the 1970 anti-war demonstration ended in the death for four students. Nine others were wounded by Ohio National Guard gunfire.

High school senior gets meeting invite

CHICAGO (AP) — The National Advisory Council on Child Nutrition has asked Ohio high school senior Clifford Panken to attend its meeting Aug. 22-23 in Washington, D.C.

While coalition attorneys were petitioning Lambros for the construction delay Thursday, an estimated 100 protesters gathered near the site anticipating excavation would begin. Some said they intended to obstruct the job, inside a tall, chain-link fence, in any way possible. The site won the reprieve from bulldozers around 5 p.m., though, and coalition members rejoiced cautiously.

Carter Dodge, coalition spokesman, said "It bought us more time, at least until Wednesday (Aug. 24). But I don't think we should get overconfident. We've had temporary restraining orders lifted before."

"I think we should go on planning for a long struggle, starting off with the Joan Baez rally Saturday," Dodge said.

University officials have said they are anxious to begin excavating the hillside construction site because the summer of delays has been costly to the university because of its contracts with the builders.

But in Washington, Sen. James Abourezk, D-S.D., said Thursday he would introduce a bill in September to insure the site is undisturbed until the U.S. Interior Department decides if the shooting scene is worthy of national historical landmark status. Such a study is under way.

Major earthquake shakes Indonesia

HONOLULU (AP) — A major earthquake occurred Friday in the vicinity of Sumba Island in Indonesia, according to the International Tsunami Information Center's Observatory here.

The earthquake registered 7.7 on the Richter scale here, an observatory spokesman said.

There was no evidence that a Pacific-wide tsunami, or tidal wave, was generated, although there may have been a local wave, the spokesman said.

The U.S. Geological Survey said the earthquake struck at 1:09 p.m. local time, 2:09 a.m. EDT, near the Sumbawa and Sumba islands in the southeastern part of Indonesia.

It said preliminary readings placed the center of the quake at 10.35 degrees south latitude and 118.54 degrees east longitude. A survey spokesman said the center of the quake was "not far from the center of a magnitude 6.5 earthquake on July 14, 1976 near the island of Bali that claimed 563 lives and injured 2,300 people."

The Richter Scale is a measure of ground motion as recorded on seismographs. Every increase of one number means a tenfold increase in magnitude.

An earthquake of 3.5 on the Richter scale can cause slight damage in the local area. 4 moderate damage, 5 considerable damage, 6 severe damage. A 7 reading is a "major" earthquake, capable of widespread heavy damage; 8 is a "great" quake, capable of tremendous damage.

Ohio selected for new movie

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Akron stars as New York, and Kingsville is double cast as New England countryside and a small village in Connecticut.

The trick is in the photography, as well as the promotional handiwork of the state development office's Ohio Film Bureau, which secured Ohio as the location for the shooting of a Universal Studios movie.

James A. Duerk, state development director, credited the development team's California trip with Ohio's selection as the site of "Harvest Home," a four-hour feature movie for television.

Shooting will begin late this month in Kingsville, Austinburg, Akron and Mentor. Other cities still under consideration include Ashtabula, Bath, Burton, Chardon, Chagrin Falls and Canal Fulton.

The thriller film is based on a novel by Thomas Tryon about a commercial artist, his wife and daughter who leave New York City (Akron) for the supposed serenity of a remote New England village (Kingsville and Mentor).

The film will be shown on the NBC network sometime in November.

TV Viewing

By JAY SHARBUTT

AP Television Writer

LOS ANGELES (AP) - Will Harry leave Barbara? Will ABC abolish the traditional anchor role on its evening news? Will ABC's evening news show end its long reign as third in network ratings this season?

Roone Arledge, the energetic ABC sports chief who took charge of ABC News on June 1, says no to questions One and Two. But he's hoping to say yes to the third question during the 1977-1978 season.

Since July 11, he's been busy trying a new look for ABC's weeknight news, whose previous new look came Oct. 4, 1976, when famed Barbara Walters joined disgruntled Harry Reasoner as a coanchor.

The Arledge look markedly reduced - but not always - the time Harry or Barbara spend reading "lead-ins" to correspondents' stories, and increase the time spent on the stories themselves.

Aiding the process is the "whip-around," wherein two or more correspondents report various aspects of a major story, one after another, without cutting back to New York after each report.

And, if several stories occur in a particular region, a subanchor, or "regional anchor," sets up a podium in that region to introduce and explain those stories, as Peter Jennings did from the Mideast recently.

"It's been interpreted as a move to downgrade the entire New York-based anchor role," Arledge said of ABC's new approach to an evening news show, "and that's not really true."

Lions choose captains

County grid teams begin contact drills

The Washington C.H. varsity football team, 46 members strong, began contact workouts yesterday under second-year head coach Paul Ondrus. Co-Captains this year are Duane Six, senior lineman, and Jeff Elliott, senior tailback. The two were chosen by their teammates. "They're the best selections their teammates could have made," Ondrus said. "Both are excellent leaders and good football players. I think those two will do a good job."

The Blue Lions are short a few players as a few of them have had to sit out until they get physical cards in, but Ondrus expects a full practice for everyone on Saturday.

Ondrus said a lot of new people are coming out for football for the first time.

"The offense is far ahead of our defense," Ondrus said. He has seven starters back on offense. Defensively, the Lions will use a "52" again, but will be slightly different from last year.

Defensive linemen with some experience include Gary Huysman, Chester Hollar, Duane Six and Michael Turner.

Huysman, who started at center and occasionally at defensive end, will work in reverse this year, playing mostly defensive end.

Hollar, who was a middle guard last year, is not at one of the tackle slots.

Turner played defensive end in 1976 but Ondrus is impressed with his speed and will try him out at nose guard.

Two linebackers with some experience are Bobby Runnells and Bobby Shaw.

One of the strong points on defense in experience will be the backfield where Terry Wilson, Jeff Elliott and Tony West will play. West is moving from short corner man to strong safety leaving Ondrus with one position to fill.

Washington C.H. worked non defense Thursday and this morning and improved quite a bit in two days of hitting, Ondrus said.

The Miami Trace Panthers enjoyed their first day of contact Thursday. The football players put pads on Wednesday and looked forward to Thursday's hitting drills according to coach Fred Zechman. During the three non-contact days, the Panthers worked on their kicking game, timing of plays, getting defensive alignments arranged and timing on pass offense and pass defense.

The team worked on screens, draw plays and pass defense all afternoon. Zechman said, "the pass combination of Art Schlichter to Bill Hamers is looking real good." Coach (Bill) Beatty said that he thinks Shawn Riley and Glenn Cobb are having a good preseason at the offensive tackle spots.

On defense, Coach Doug James said he has been impressed with the quickness of Denny Combs and that David Creamer has done a good job at cornerback during the team's five days of practice.

Zechman said "We have some pretty good position fights coming on." Two battles for starting slots are between Dave Hennessy and Mark McFadden at defensive tackle and between Keith Downing and Lonnie Hixon at defensive end.

For Woody Hayes

Coaching philosophy changes in 27th year

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Woody Hayes begins his 27th Ohio State football season with a change in coaching philosophy.

No longer will he have the hammering, massive fullback-style of attack. Instead, Hayes will deploy a quick, small backfield. No starter weighs more than 197 pounds.

Hayes first used speedboys Jeff Logan, 184, and Ron Springs, 197, interchangeably at fullback and tailback in surprising Colorado 27-10 in the Orange Bowl.

"We'll let the line take care of the weight and the backs take care of the quickness," said Hayes, with 222 victories in 30 collegiate seasons.

"We had one of weakest offensive lines in seasons last year. We simply had little experience. We'll be better, much better from tackle to tackle."

The interior anchor is 6-foot-4 tackle Chris Ward, whom Hayes says at 271 pounds "is a little bit on the skinny side."

Ward's buddies are mammoth. Tackle Doug Mackey weighs 250, guards Mark Lang, Jim Savoca and Ken Fritz in the 220-230 range, center Tim Vogler 229 and tight ends Bill Jaco and Greg Storer 246 and 216.

To shore up the offensive line, Hayes moved Fritz from linebacker, Vogler from guard to center and Lang from center to guard.

Logan, in Hayes' mind, saved the Buckeyes' unprecedented fifth straight

Big Ten championship, 9-2-1 record and No. 6 national ranking.

"If it hadn't been for Jeff, we'd not have tied for the title (with Michigan)."

Logan was Ohio State's leading rusher with 1,284 yards, the fifth player in the school's history to pass the 1,000 yard plateau. Springs is even faster than Logan, leading the national junior college rushers two years ago.

Quarterback Rod Gerald, who missed most of the last four games in 1976, has recovered and his darting style complements Logan and Springs.

Hayes, scornful of the pass normally, has as receivers swift 6-foot-4 Herman Jones, Storer and Jago and said, "the end position could be a great striking force for us. I've promised to throw to Jones this year and just not in practice."

The Buckeyes managed three touchdowns or less in five games last fall and Hayes said, "the defense carried us a lot."

Ohio State's defenders, just like the offense, have eight regulars back. The foundations are cat-quick middle guard Aaron Brown and tackle Eddie Beamon up front.

Ohio State opens Sept. 10 against visiting Miami (Fla.) and plays Oklahoma in a nationally televised game in Columbus Sept. 24. That one should have an influence on the national champion to succeed Pittsburgh.

Killer baseball locked up safely in Florida cabinet

ORLANDO, Fla. (AP) — The only killer baseball in major league history is still in existence, 57 years after it took the life of a Cleveland Indians shortstop.

Bob Curley, an editor for the Orlando Sentinel Star, keeps it locked in a cabinet in his home. The scuffed and slightly torn ball has been bad news twice.

The ball which killed Raymond Johnson Chapman 57 years ago was given to Curley, then a sports writer, by one of the players who took part in the game.

Golf news

Winners of the men's annual handicap golf tournament at the Washington Country Club were Charles Cummings, division one; W. M. Friece, division two; Richard Lewis, division three; and Robert Herold, division four.

In the division playoffs, Friece defeated Cummings and Herold beat Lewis. Herold defeated Friece four to three to win the championship. Herold also won against Tom Rambo, Bernie Light, Paul Maughmer and James Taylor.

Sunday will feature a team scramble.

Woody seeks mound return; claims Reds stalling plans

EWING, Ky. (AP) — Veteran pitcher Woodie Fryman says he wants back in baseball, but charges the Cincinnati Reds are blocking his way by making "ridiculous" demands.

"I would like to play somewhere else, but they're punishing me," said the 37-year-old lefthander who quit the world champions last month in midseason after a struggling start.

Fryman, who operates a tobacco-dairy farm in Ewing, said the Reds are not making reasonable efforts to trade him.

He said four teams have expressed an interest in him, but the Reds are holding out for a front-line player. Fryman said the Reds tried to deal him to the Chicago Cubs, but demanded 28-year-old starting pitcher Bill Bonham in an even swap.

"Those other teams are not stupid. They're not going to give up a front-line player for an old man like me," said Fryman, who was 5-5 when he left the club.

"I think they're saying 'well, he quit on us when we could have used him, so maybe we'll show him he can't play nowhere,'" he said. Fryman added that friends in baseball told him the other interested teams were the Philadelphia Phillies, Pittsburgh Pirates and Montreal Expos.

He said the Reds demanded 23-year-old reliever Tom Underwood when the Phillies indicated interest.

Dick Wagner, general manager of the Reds, said the club has not been able "to find anything of value" for Fryman. "He's a starting pitcher and we want someone of commensurate ability."

He added, "we made a sincere effort. It's not as easy to trade players' contracts as people think."

Tosses fifth one-hitter

Sutton ties league record

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Don Sutton doesn't have the reputation of a Don Drysdale or a Sandy Koufax but the numbers show that the 32-year-old Los Angeles right-hander is one of the finest pitchers in Dodger history.

One thing Sutton hasn't done during his outstanding career is pitch a no-hitter. He just missed accomplishing that feat Thursday afternoon but even so his name entered the record book.

Sutton, 11-7, allowed only one hit — Marc Hill's clean single with two out in the eighth inning — as the Dodgers whipped the San Francisco Giants 7-0 and raised their lead in the National League West to 12 games over idle Cincinnati.

The one-hitter, in which he walked four and fanned five, was the fifth of Sutton's career, tying the NL record. The triumph raised Sutton's career mark to 187-143 and tied him with Drysdale for the Los Angeles team record for victories.

In addition, it was the 46th shutout of Sutton's career, tops among active major league pitchers.

"I couldn't remember every pitch I made, but the numbers on the scoreboard kept me abreast of what was going on," said Sutton, who broke a four-game losing streak with his first victory July 4. "I definitely knew I was pitching a no-hitter. In fact, I even joked about it with some of the guys in the dugout during the game. There were some great plays behind me that kept it going."

The only other NL pitchers with five one-hitters are Tom Seaver, Mordecai Brown, Grover Alexander and Jim Maloney.

Phillies 8, Expos 3
Richie Hebner socked his first major league grand slam homer in the fifth inning to erase a 3-2 Montreal lead. Hebner, who grounded out and fouled out with runners in scoring position earlier, smashed ex-Phillie Wayne Twitchell's first pitch into the right field stands for his 14th home run of the season.

Bake McBride also homered for the Phils while Jim Lonborg limited Montreal to five hits and also drilled a run-scoring single. Andre Dawson hit a three-run homer for Montreal.

Pirates 7, Cubs 6
Al Oliver, Dave Parker, Phil Garner and Bill Robinson all smashed home runs into a 17-mile-an-hour wind. Three of the homers came off loser Ray Burris while Robinson's was hit off Pete Brobert.

The Cubs jumped to a 2-0 lead against winner Jerry Reuss in the first inning but Oliver homered in the second, Parker tied the game by leading off the fourth with his homer and the Pirates went ahead to stay with three runs in the fifth.

Red Sox 8, Brewers 4
George Scott drilled four hits, including a pair of two-run singles, and scored twice to lead Boston to its 17th victory in 19 games. Ferguson Jenkins was tagged for six hits and four runs in the first two innings and then allowed just three hits the rest of the way, retiring 16 batters in a row during one stretch.

Ohio Bell seeks political action

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ohio Bell Telephone Co. is joining the growing list of corporations turning to political action committees as a means of beefing up their influence on the political scene.

Federal and state laws both prohibit corporate contributions to candidates, but leave the door open to committees as a channel for putting employee contributions where they can count the most. Labor unions use the same method for member contributions.

Ohio Bell President Charles E. Hugel sent letters earlier this week to about 500 management personnel—from district supervisory personnel on up—advising of the formation of two political action groups—one for federal elections and the other for state and local contests.

Other states in the Bell System, and their parent American Telephone and Telegraph Co., already have committees. So do several other big Ohio corporations, including Standard Oil of Ohio, TRW, Inc., Republic Steel Corp., Eaton Corp., the Chessie System, and others.

William A. Spratley, Ohio's new consumers' counsel, acknowledged that Ohio's biggest telephone company has a right to name committees, but said he doesn't think they are needed. He said the company already makes its presence "greatly felt" in Columbus, and is "adequately represented" by lobbyists in the legislative process.

Spratley added: "The question is how much impact it will have."

The consumers' counsels office, created last year to represent utility customers in rate hike proceedings, said he has doubts about the accuracy of Ohio Bell's reports on political expenses, such as lobbying, "but I don't have access to their books."

The company reported spending about $1,400 on lobbying activities in the first seven months of this year.

Hugel was out of state Thursday, but Tom Cotton, district manager, defended the move as "a right...a civic responsibility, and a workable method of supporting the democratic process." Ohio Bell employees, like any other company's, he said, should be able to support candidates "whose ideas they share."

Although the money will come from employees, corporate executives who will comprise the committee obviously have a chance to exert considerable influence on where the funds go.

Jaycees give circus money to Community Ed program

The Washington C.H. Jaycees have donated $400 to the local Community Education program.

The announcement of the donation, which came from proceeds from the Jaycee-sponsored circus earlier this summer, was made following Wednesday's regular Jaycee chapter meeting.

Tony Pack, the Community Education program director, attended the meeting and enlisted the Jaycees to sponsor the food concessions at the annual Offsides football game scheduled for Oct. 1 at Gardner Park.

Mark Hartman, Ernie Wilson, Dale Butler, Bob Caughron, Joe Burbage, and John Gault have been appointed to the concession committee. Gault will serve as chairman.

The final plans for the annual Jaycee family picnic were announced at Wednesday's meeting. Jaycees and their families should report to the clubhouse by 11 a.m. Aug. 28 before departing for Deer Creek State Park.

Committee chairman for annual Jaycee functions were also announced at the meeting.

Rob Bishop will head the Muscular Dystrophy committee, John Gault will chair the Halloween candy sales committee, and Dale Butler and Joe Burbage will be in charge of membership month.

Butler, Caughron, and Mark Hartman will handle the Christmas tree sales this winter and Ernie Wilson and Joe Burbage will head the Jaycee mixed volleyball team which will be competing in the Community Education volleyball league this fall.

It was also announced that the local Jaycee chapter would be competing in the Jaycee district softball tournament in Sabina this Sunday. The Jeffersonville Jaycee chapter is the defending champion.

A number of other projects were discussed at Wednesday's meeting including the participation of members in helping with the local Pony Football League program and with the local Junior Achievement program.

Jim East, an employee at Ron Farmer's Auto Supermarket; Frank Hamilton, an employee at the Ohio Water Service Co.; and Tony Pack were prospective Jaycee members in attendance Wednesday. East was a guest of Gary Johnson, Hamilton was a guest of Joe Burbage, and Pack was a guest of Vernon Stanforth.

The Jaycees board of directors will meet at 8 p.m. Wednesday, and the next regularly scheduled chapter meeting will be Sept. 7.

Another suit filed in fire

COVINGTON, Ky. (AP) — A $10.5 million suit was filed in U.S. District Court Thursday resulting from the May 27 fire which killed 164 persons at the Beverly Hills Supper Club.

The suit was filed by Roger Brown of Kettering, Ohio, whose wife, Doris, perished in the blaze.

It was filed against the 4-R Corp., owners and operators of the nightclub. The action was the 41st suit related to the fire, boosting damages sought to $1.1 billion.

In a related development, U.S. District Court Judge Carl Rubin of Cincinnati, special judge in charge of the Beverly Hills case, Thursday consolidated all the motions filed in the suits.

He asked for names of attorneys who will serve as lead counsel for discovery procedures and confirmed a previous order prohibiting the owners of the club from making any settlement without court approval.

Assault charge filed after tiff

A local woman filed a complaint of assault against her husband following an incident Thursday afternoon, Washington C.H. police officers reported.

Twenty-year-old Rhonda K. Greer, 890 Davis Court, reportedly stated to police officers her husband, Luther (Danny) Greer, struck her with his hands and fists during an argument at their home around 1:30 p.m. Thursday.

Mrs. Greer was treated at Fayette County Memorial Hospital for a laceration over the right eye, contusions of the lower left eye and bruises on her upper right arm, the police report stated. She was released following treatment.

Police officers arrested Greer on a charge of assault. He was released from custody under a $1,000 bond pending a hearing in Washington C.H. Municipal Court.

Minor accident reported

Washington C.H. police officers reported a minor two-car collision Thursday morning at the intersection of Washington Avenue and Clearview Road.

Neither driver was injured when a semi-tractor trailer rig crashed into another vehicle about 10:50 a.m. as the other vehicle was turning right onto Clearview Road from the eastbound lane of Washington Avenue. According to the police report, James M. Musser, 22, of Garrison, Ky., failed to signal his intention to turn. The semi driver, William O. Taylor, 45, of Zanesville, reportedly told investigating officers he didn't see Musser's car start its turn. The officers said Musser's car had faulty brake lights before the accident occurred.

Approximately $140 worth of household items were stolen from a Lakeview Avenue residence, according to a report filed Thursday with Washington C.H. police officers.

Howdy Doody and gang converge on Columbus

COLUMBUS, Ohio — Buffalo Bob Smith, Clarabell, Howdy Doody and the rest of the "Doodyville Gang" have converged on Columbus and have taken up residence at the 1977 Ohio State Fair.

Both young and old members of the Peanut Gallery can respond to Buffalo Bob's query of "Say kids, what time is it?", during the six daily performances of The New Howdy Doody Show which runs through the last day of the State fair, August 28.

From the first spray of Clarabell's seltzer, laughter mushrooms and is sustained throughout the length of the show. Audience participation is the name of the game with members responding to the songs and antics of the show's human and puppet performers.

The original Howdy Doody Show was seen on NBC-TV from 1947 to 1960. After its demise its creator, Smith, went into semi-retirement until 1970 when he revived his freckled wooden friend in a nostalgia-laden performance for Doodyville alumni at the University of Pennsylvania.

The show's success led to an expanded tour of college campuses throughout the country. Visits to shopping centers proved that Howdy's charm extended to those too young to remember the original series.

A new television show was created in 1976 and is syndicated in 35 markets, according to Jack Drury, the show's executive producer.

Drury said the fair show marks the first time that the entire cast of the television production has assembled in a personal appearance on the road. Previous road shows have not included all puppet members of the cast due to problems and costs involved with transporting them from city to city. The long run of the show at the Fair alleviated some of these problems, Drury said.

Smith, 59, claims that children have not changed much over the years. "Some of the bits are the same as 30 years ago," he said.

The show is playing at the Radio Pavilion every two hours starting at 10 a.m. through 8 p.m. Admission is $2 for adults and $1 for children.

Audience members are eligible to enter a drawing in which a family will be able to win a trip to Fort Lauderdale, Fla., The drawing will be on August 28.

Autumn Quarter 1977

FACT SHEET

- All students who are enrolled have been assigned a Faculty Adviser by the Dean of Program and Instruction to assist you in planning your program and scheduling. See the South or North Campus Admission's Office for your assigned Faculty Adviser and office location.
- All faculty advisers can keep their Autumn Quarter schedule up-to-date by checking daily with the North or South Campus Admission's Office. The Registrar's Office is in "Constant" contact with the Admissions Offices for up-dating schedule of classes.
- Admissions Offices must review student schedules for completeness and accuracy before turning in completed student schedules to Registrar's Office. This will help avoid unnecessary delay in registration.
- All changes in registration (add/drop) must be made on the registration change form before it becomes official. This includes changes in class sections. Verbal approval will not suffice.
- All new and transfer students should make their initial contact with the North or South Campus Admission's Office for admittance, registration, financial aid, student fees, veterans affairs, etc.
- It is the policy of Southern State College in accordance with Title IX of the 1972 Education Amendments to allow students access to courses (except physical contact activity courses) regardless of sex.
- Students who are having special program problems are encouraged to see Dean Franz for Liberal Arts and Mr. Wayne Jones for Technical Education Programs.
- Southern State may have to cancel low enrollment classes. Also, staffing subject to change.
- Student Identification Cards and Parking Permits will be issued to students by the North or South Campus Admissions's Office upon initial registration for Autumn Quarter.
- Faculty assignments will be posted at a later date. See bulletin boards.
